Suzanne Gabos

Creator of Suzanne's Discreet Chic Accessories

Tired of her tampons falling embarrassingly all over the place and getting damaged, Suzanne Gabos of Tampa, Florida knew there had to be a better way of carrying them. As a woman of fashion and style, Suzanne had trouble finding anything that looked chic! All the tampon containers on the market she found resembled tin cans and dental cases. They also weren't functional as they only housed one or two tampons. That is when Suzanne had her "ah-ha" moment. The result was Suzanne's Discreet Chic Accessories, a line of feminine travel accessories for women of all ages.

Born and raised on Staten Island, New York, Suzanne's career did not begin in fashion accessories. She attended Pace University with a Bachelors Degree in Accounting. While attending college, Suzanne accepted an internship at the Chase Manhattan Bank in their Internal Auditing Department and upon graduating accepted a job at Chase as a second year auditor. At the young age of 25, Suzanne rose to the role of Second Vice President.

Realizing she had another passion, Suzanne left Chase to pursue Speech Pathology. She enrolled at St. John's University to begin her studies for a Masters Degree. Suzanne was only two semesters away from graduating when her husband received a job in health care services. They moved to Tampa where they started a family and eventually had two children.

With her keen eye for style and fashion, Suzanne found expression in Florida through interior decorating and design. With a sense of color and texture, the rooms she decorated expressed a special warmth and balance, creating an environment of synergy and appeal. This brought Suzanne to a place of new challenges where she was meeting the intimate needs of active women all over the world. It was at this point she knew she wanted to keep on working in a career where she could design and be creative and provide something that would help women. Thus, Suzanne's Discreet Chic Accessories were born.
